

Rutland Historical Society Newsletter
Volume I No. 2 (January 1971)
Center Street

This newsletter contains a column from the editor, James S. Davidson, informing members of the new location for the Society museum. It also contains "Briefs" which fill the reader in on recent society meetings, events, and projects. The "Who's Who" section features two members of the Rutland community, Barbara Chiolino, owner of Windy Ledge Antiques; and Charles Connor, editor of the Saturday Rutland Herald column, "100 Years Ago." "What's Where" announces the discovery of Rutland public building plans found in Lancaster, PA. "Who Knows" asks members for any knowledge they may have about current Society projects on builder Gershom Cheney and nineteenth century artist James Hope. This issue also contains a "Map of the Village of Rutland, VT," published by Presdee & Edwards in 1852. Lastly, there is a notice regarding an upcoming event about Rutland railroads.
