Rutland Herald Christmas Letter-1 944

This Christmas letter was written by the Rutland Herald to ex-employees, serving in the armed forces all over the world in 1944. This Christmas greeting was also a very clever way to let all the ex-employees know who ended up where, and how the paper was struggling along without them. There are many photographs of all the Rutland Herald departments accompanied with a caption for each photograph including the names of people in the pictures. All the departments in this way get to send season's greetings to their ex-colleagues.
