

Rutland Historical Society Quarterly

Vol. XXIX No.1

Development of Rocky Pond Recreational Area, Rutland, Vermont

This issue of the quarterly focuses on the development of the Rocky Pond Recreational Area in Rutland between 1952-1954. It discusses how the plans for development were formed and how the plans were put into action. This issue contains photographs and maps of the area before, during and after the development. It also contains a timeline of events that outlines the development of the recreational area. The sources used by the author include information from the Rutland Chamber of Commerce, Rutland Parks and Recreation Department, the Rutland Herald, and interviews.