

Rutland Historical Society

Quarterly Vol. 35, No.1, 2005

July Guns of Colonial Patriots II: The Battle of Hubbardton Revisited

“July Guns of Colonial PatriotsII: The Battle of Hubbarton Revisited” is the second installment written by Carmine A. Pacca, a longtime member of the Historical Society. The detailed content is an indication of the numerous hours researching the background of this battle.

The essential material presented here focuses on the strength of the three armies involved in the battle and its aftermath, including the disposition of prisoners, wounded and dead.

Accompanying the article are sketches of some of the officers involved in the conflict, and a lengthy, useful Bibliography.