

Rutland Historical Society Quarterly

Vol.47, No.1, 2017

“Women Writers of Rutland” contributed by Stephanie Billow a History and Art History major, Smith College class of 2019.

In her introduction, Ms. Billow writes, “This work is primarily a homage to the literary works of (three) women and their impact on Rutland history; it is also a glimpse into lives—worth remembering”.

The women in question are Julia C.R.Dorr ; Edith Kellogg Dunton; and Beth Bradford Gilchrist.It is well researched and well written with numerous illustrations to accompany the text. A welcome addition illustrating the literary and personal lives of three local women.
