

Rutland Historical Society Quarterly

Vol.47, No.3, 2017

Heavy Metal Memories at Mac Equipment and Steel” was researched and written by David Zsido.

Mac Equipment and Steel Company specialized in the sale of a wide variety of metal products, metal fabrication, and purchase and sale of metal products.

The article details the many various tasks performed by the company with a number of illustrations of scrap parts including: a railway section car; McCormick-Deering tractor; Ford cabs from Carris Reels; a Brockway truck; and Irving Mac with an old Link Belt crane.

The most interesting picture, on the back cover, is that of the first piece of “junk art” at Mac steel. Other old pieces are still able to be seen on a section of Rt.7 South for the adventurous.