Two roads diverged in a yellow wood
And sorry I could not travel both
And be one traveler, long I stood
And looked down one as far I could
To where it bent in the undergrowth dedication . . .

There exists an outside voice in everyone's life that is guiding, that is helping, or is just there.

In everyone's life exists a person whose kindness shines brilliantly, whose humor is gentle, and, above all, whose concern is genuine.

One can live an entire lifetime without ever being able to do enough or say enough to demonstrate our gratitude for such a show of easy humanness.

And so it is that this graduating class of the College of St. Joseph the Provider wishes to thank a kind, gentle and concerned man by dedicating the 1972 Cairn to Mr. Fred Czmesia.

Then took the other as just as fair,
And having perhaps the better claim,
Because it was grassy and wanted wear,
Though as far that the passing there
Had worn them really about the same.

A black and white photograph showing a house with a gabled roof and a utility pole with two cross-arms. The scene is viewed through a curved, tunnel-like structure, possibly a culvert or a tunnel entrance. The foreground is filled with tall grass. The overall mood is somber and reflective.

And that morning equally lay
In leaves no step had trodden black.
Oh, I kept the first for another day!
Yet knowing how way leads on to way
I doubted if I should ever come back.

I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I,
I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference.

The path of a bird
Soaring in flight
leaves no tangible trail,
Nothing for the cynic to touch
just as each wave rises
only to erase —
Yet the open among us
bear the gift of memory to open their souls and re-see and understand that the greatest gifts are intangible.
such also are the gifts of the mind.
